Need to enhance or design leadership programs for your high potential managers? Or simply curious to hear about the process in developing them?

Judith Fernandez, Laurie C. Hubble, Martha Marcotte, and Carrie Rulis of the CVS Corporation's organizational development and training department offer Bay Colonies members and guests a comprehensive view of field leadership development. They will provide a history of field management development and discuss their development programs that include region-level development program for potential field management candidates, the emerging leaders program, and a post-promotion development program for new field managers. Other discussion points covered:

- selection and assessment tools
- curricula and training materials
- classroom training topics, technologies to support learning
- distance learning strategies

The ASTD Bay Colonies Board looks forward to seeing you at CVS Headquarters on April 17.
